Brief Project Description:

Conventional cotton farming has long been linked to critical environmental issues, such as the excessive use of water, the application of chemical pesticides and fertilizers, and the degradation of soil, all of which contribute to an imbalance in ecosystems, ultimately leading to environmental degradation and the loss of biodiversity. WWF-Pakistan has taken the initiative with the financial support of Better Cotton/GIF to implement the Better Cotton project across 07 districts in the provinces of Punjab and Sindh. The project focuses on enhancing the capacity of farmers to adopt the Better Cotton Standard System (BCSS). The primary goal is to extend comprehensive training to cotton farmers, emphasizing the adoption of efficient Cotton farming techniques. This includes the implementation of integrated pest management practices, the efficient utilization of water resources, the enhancement of soil health, the promotion of biodiversity, and the mitigation of social issues such as Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work (FPRW), encompassing concerns related to child labor, occupational health, and women's empowerment.
